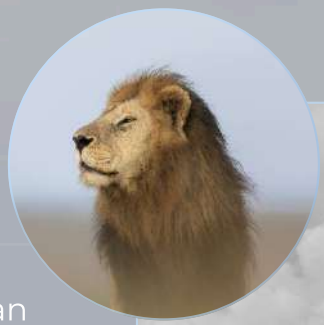
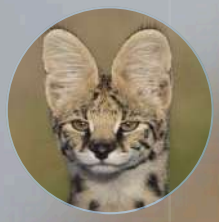
The Story



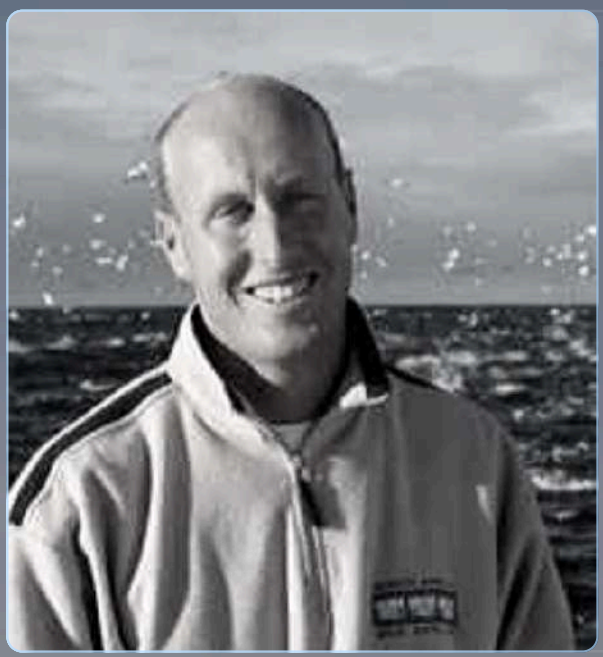
Step into the wild heart of the Serengeti on an extraordinary 13-day journey led by world-renowned wildlife photographer Chris Fallows. Limited to just 8 guests, this intimate safari offers unrivalled photographic opportunities, immersive wildlife encounters, and expert guidance in one of nature's greatest theatres..



Stay in exquisite luxury at Asilia's renowned lodges, Usangu, Namiri, and Dunia. Each location offers a unique window into Tanzania's breathtaking landscapes, from vast plains to hidden wildlife-rich havens. Dunia, Africa's first female-run luxury camp, provides not only world-class comfort but also an inspiring story of empowerment and resilience.

Throughout the journey, Chris Fallows leads hands-on photography masterclasses, helping you hone your skills and capture the magic of the Serengeti through your lens. Focus your camera on majestic big cats, towering elephants, and herds of wildebeest as they traverse the savanna - perhaps even witnessing the Great Migration in full swing, a spectacle like no other.

Whether you're an aspiring photographer or a seasoned enthusiast, this journey deepens your connection with Tanzania's untamed beauty while elevating your craft. With expert guides, intimate campfire evenings, and the chance to witness Africa's raw splendour, this is more than a safari - it's a story waiting to be captured.



CHRIS FALLOWS

STORYTELLER

Chris Fallows, a renowned South African wildlife photographer and conservationist, has spent over 30 years capturing breathtaking images of the natural world. His groundbreaking work began in 1996 when he became the first to photograph a great white shark breaching near Seal Island, South Africa, a moment that has since become iconic. Known as a pioneer in wildlife storytelling, Chris's work has been featured in over 60 international documentaries, including Planet Earth and Shark Week, as well as in more than 500 publications worldwide.

Chris's approach to wildlife photography blends technical mastery with a deep respect for his subjects. Through his lens, he showcases the magnificence of species such as great white sharks, African elephants, and black-maned lions, revealing their unique behaviours and ecosystems. His images not only captivate but also inspire conservation, often documenting rare or disappearing moments in nature.

His philosophy underscores the responsibility of photographers to use their art to raise awareness and drive conservation, ensuring future generations can experience the wonders of the natural world.

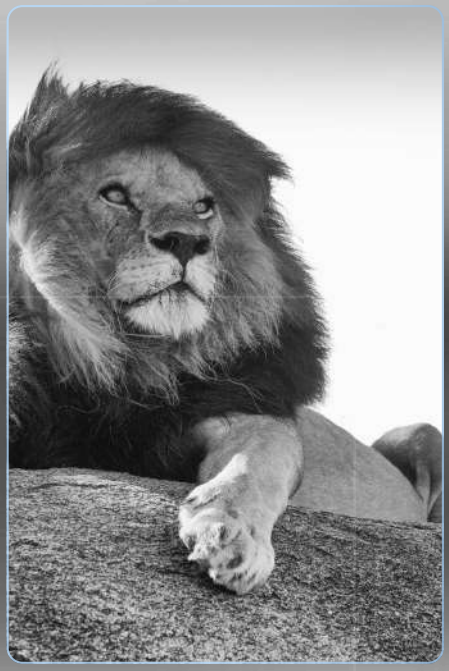
Big Cats

AND THE GREAT MIGRATION



In Tanzania's legendary Serengeti, the Great Migration is one of nature's greatest spectacles.

As seasonal rains refresh the plains, more than two million wildebeest stream forward, joined by huge numbers of zebras and gazelles.

Lions rest on rocky kopjes, watching for the perfect moment, while leopards wait patiently in the branches of acacia trees.

Cheetahs glide across the grasslands, exploding into breathtaking sprints when the chance appears.

The arrival of the herds transforms the plains into a vivid, moving picture.

Great clouds of dust rise as thousands flow forward, river crossings become dramatic scenes of courage and chaos.

Big cats move through the throng, their golden coats standing out sharply against the swirling dust and golden grass.

These big cats are perfectly adapted to master the migration's challenges.

Visitors may watch a lion pride claim a kill among the herds, a leopard carry prey high into a tree, or a cheetah pause on a termite mound to scan the horizon.

This glimpse into the Serengeti reveals the raw power, grace, and perfect balance of one of the world's most extraordinary natural cycles.
